

Merry “Blorpmas!!”

By Emerson E.

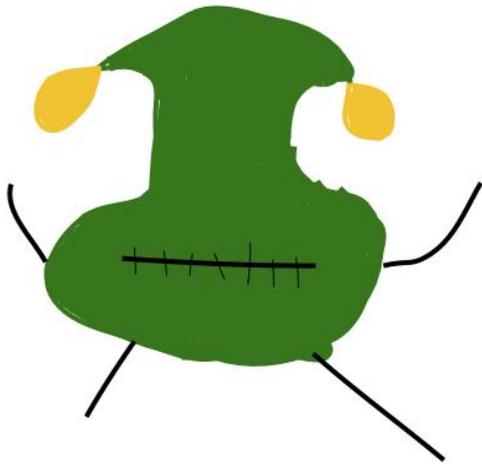

Omniscient

Once upon a time in a land very far away but also very close, there lived a species called the blorp. The blorps were very kind creatures but they looked very unusual. And they loved to celebrate. Their favorite holiday was a variation of Christmas, but instead, it was called Blorpmas. When Blorpmas came around, blorps would decorate their houses with sticky glow-in-the-dark slime. They would slather it all over the house and sculpt it into slimy blorp decorations. When it got dark, but not rainy, the slime would glow and look very attractive if you arranged it the right way. The best houses were chosen to go head to head in a decoration face off. The best house was voted on by the citizens of the surrounding area and whichever house with the most votes would win 50,000 blorp bucks. And one little blorp, Abby, was determined to do just that. So she decorated her house with 2,500 gallons of slime. The more slime, the merrier! So the judges came and looked at Abby’s house and decided that she and her house would be entered in the competition. She and her house won by 655 votes exactly! So Abby took home her trophy and her 50,000 blorp bucks and she kept winning for the rest of eternity.

First person

Currently, in a land very far away but also very close, there is a species called the blorp. We blorps are very kind creatures but we look very unusual. And we love to celebrate. Our favorite holiday is a variation of Christmas, but instead, it is called Blorpmas. When Blorpmas comes around, we decorate our houses with sticky glow-in-the-dark slime. We slather it all over the house and sculpt it into slimy blorp decorations. When it gets dark, but not rainy, the slime glows and looks very attractive if you arrange it the right way. The best houses are chosen to go head to head in a decoration face off. The best house is voted on by the citizens of the surrounding area and whichever house with the most votes would win 50,000 blorp bucks. I am a blorp, and my name is Abby. I am very determined to win the contest. It's been my dream since I was three years old. So I decorated my house with 2,500 gallons of slime. The more slime, the merrier! So the judges came and looked at my house and decided that my house and I would be entered in the competition! I just have to wait and see if I win, because I really hope I do!

This is a blorp. They also vary in size and color, but an average, normal blorp looks like the picture above. Abby was a blue blorp with short black hair.