

The Boy Who Was Left at Walmart

By John W.
(Omniscient)

In the town of West Orange there has been a long series of robberies. All of the robberies have been committed by the same person who was taking money out of cash registers. The police have been searching for months but have not yet succeeded. The evening news showed a picture of the man to help the police find him.

On Friday night Joe and his mom went shopping at Walmart. They were walking down aisle six when they realized Walmart was about to close at 9:00. Joe decided to use the bathroom before going home. While he was washing his hands he heard noises outside the bathroom window. He was curious and looked out the window and saw a man climbing onto the roof of Walmart with a rope. He panicked and rushed out of the bathroom to the main door of the store. When Joe tried to open the door it was locked. That is when he heard a trap door swing open. Joe hid in aisle four while the robber climbed down.

The robber took his mask off and it was the same robber from the TV news. Then Joe sneezed. He hid in aisle four while the robber looked for him. He looked in aisle 1, then aisle 2, then aisle 3, Then he saw Joe. Joe picked up a Swiffer and hit the robber in the head which knocked him out. Joe called the police but was not sure what to do if the robber woke up before the police arrived. After a while Joe thought of an idea. He looked around for materials to use. He took the pole out of the Swiffer and he grabbed a long rubber band. He also grabbed a sling shot about $\frac{1}{2}$ a meter long. Then he tied the rubber bands to the sling shot and waited to fire the Swiffer pole. The robber woke up and grabbed the cash register and Joe waited...waited...and then he fired the pole at him. It hit him in the head and he fell the ground. The police officers that Joe called poured into the building and took the robber to jail.

Point of View

(Limited Omniscient)

Around West Orange there had been a long series of robberies. All of them have been committed by Steve. The police have been searching for months but have not found him.

On Friday night Steve was planning to break into Walmart. He had the rope to climb onto the roof. Since Walmart closed at 9:00 he planned to get ready at 8:45. When he was getting ready he clicked the rope onto the roof and started climbing. He saw the window shade open under him so he sped up. He cut open the trapdoor and pushed it open. He dropped down. He took his mask off because he was getting hot. Then he heard a sneeze. He walked from aisle to aisle. When he got to aisle four he saw a boy but a couple seconds later he was on the ground with his eyes closed. When he woke up he realized he was out for at least 30 minutes. He grabbed the register and started to leave and then he was knocked to the ground. The police officers poured into the building and took him to jail.

Steve spent the next six years in jail. He was put in a local jail in New York City and ate disgusting food like peas in the shape of squares with meatloaf that looked like they picked it up from the bottom of the sea and McDonald's chicken nuggets.