

The Scary Day

(Omniscient)
by Maya C.

Sophie and Amy's family were watching a new scary movie the night before Halloween. This was a tradition for this family. Sophie thought it was weird to do this tradition but Amy thought it was fun. They watched a movie called, "The Invasion of the Spirits". After the movie, the kids felt fearful and scared. They thought it would happen in real life, but will it happen? It was 10:30 p.m. and it was way past their bedtimes. The kids headed upstairs and crawled into their beds. They slept in the same room. Their parents said goodnight to them and they tried to go to sleep. Sophie and Amy couldn't go to sleep because they were so frightened about the movie. It was the scariest movie they had ever seen. Sophie and Amy were awake past midnight. It was crazy!

The next morning, they woke up tired because they had trouble sleeping. They were still going trick-or-treating because they wanted lots of candy and they've been looking forward to it all year. They spent the day preparing for Halloween night by adding last minute touches to their costumes. Amy was going to be Wonder Woman and Sophie was going to be a zombie. It finally got dark outside and the kids were super excited to go get some candy. They hurried outside and was concerned that nobody was out there. All of a sudden, something snatched them from behind and took them to a creepy castle. Sophie thought it was just a bad teenager playing a trick on them. Amy thought it was monster. As it turns out, it was a ghost! At the castle, a zombie was walking towards the girls. The zombie, looking very hungry, wanted to take a bite of Sophie's brain. He got closer and closer and closer. Then suddenly a loud noise...BEEP! BEEP! BEEP! It was their alarm clock! The girls popped up in their beds relieved it was only a dream.

The Scary Day

(First Person)
by Maya C.

My family and I were watching a new scary movie the night before Halloween. This was a tradition for my family. I thought it was weird to do this tradition but Amy thought it was fun. We watched a movie called, "The Invasion of the Spirits". After the movie, Amy and I felt fearful and scared. We thought it would happen in real life, but will it happen? It was 10:30 p.m. and it was way past our bedtimes. Amy and I headed upstairs and crawled into our beds. We slept in the same room. Our parents said, "Goodnight, girls!" and we tried to go to sleep. Amy and I couldn't go to sleep because we were so frightened about the movie. It was the scariest movie we had ever seen. Amy and I were awake past midnight. It was crazy!

The next morning, we woke up tired because we had trouble sleeping. We were still going trick-or-treating because we wanted lots of candy and we've been looking forward to it all year. We spent the day preparing for Halloween night by adding last minute touches to our costumes. Amy was going to be Wonder Woman and I was going to be a zombie. It finally got dark outside and we were super excited to go get some candy. We hurried outside and was concerned that nobody was out there. All of a sudden, something snatched us from behind and took us to a creepy castle. I thought it was just a bad teenager playing a trick on us. Amy thought it was monster. As it turns out, it was a ghost! At the castle, a zombie was walking towards us. The zombie, looking very hungry, wanted to take a bite of my brain. He got closer and closer and closer. Then suddenly a loud noise...BEEP! BEEP! BEEP! It was my alarm clock! We popped up in our beds relieved it was only a dream.