Bob was dressing up as a ninja and Joe was dressing up as Harry Potter. They both met at Joe's house and started trick or treating. There was a house that had rumors of when people ring the doorbell for candy they get a "trick" instead of a "treat". The "trick" is that a ghost comes at you and gives you some spiders instead of candy. Bob and Joe wanted to be brave so they went to the house famous for the rumors.

Once they rang the doorbell a bunch of bats and vampires came from the side of the house. Bob and Joe ran so fast to try to get away from the vampires and bats. After Bob and Joe thought they outran the vampires and the bats, they said to each other that this was not the rumor of this house, and that this was really strange. Both Joe and Bob didn't know that this was going to be the starting of the Evil Pumpkin Head's plan of taking over the world with his army of vampires and bats! In a matter of time, both Bob and Joe will regret being brave!

FIRST PERSON WRITING PART

(Bob's POV)

One day I walking with my best friend named Joe, both of us were excited because tomorrow was Halloween.

VS.

We were both debating about which candy was the best. I thought the best candy was Skittles but Joe thought it was Ring Pops. After we had a huge debate, we went biking.
(Next day)

I was dressing up as a ninja and I didn't know what Joe was dressing up as. When I met Joe I asked him what his costume was and he said his costume was Harry Potter, I didn't know who Harry Potter was but I said nothing, I didn't want to look dumb. There was a house that had rumors of when people ring the doorbell for candy they get a "trick" instead of a "treat". The "trick" is that a ghost comes at you and gives you some spiders instead of candy. I thought the rumors were fake. Joe and I wanted to be brave so we went to the house famous for the rumors. Once we rang the doorbell a bunch of bats and vampires came from the side of the house. We ran so fast to try to get away from the vampires and bats. After Joe and I thought we outran the vampires and the bats, we said to each other that this was not the rumor of this house, and that this was really strange. Both Joe and I didn't know what was going on but I only knew one thing, this was not normal at all.
